“Keeping Track of Jewish Time”

Includes essential daily prayers, candle-lighting blessings, rules of Kosher food and catalog of religious books and ritual materials.

Notice to Institutional Staff:

This calendar is an essential religious item for Jewish inmates to exercise their constitutionally-protected right to practice their religion. Among other things, it contains dates and times for religious observances, prayers and other material not available in secular calendars. Accordingly, Jewish inmates should be allowed ready access to their calendars while at their respective facilities or during transfers. This calendar has also been designed to comply with all institutional regulations, and additional copies are available at no charge from Aleph for institutional staff or chaplains. If you have any questions, contact your Chaplain, your Central Office and/or Aleph Institute at 305-864-5553.

Dedicated in loving memory of

a former federal inmate, generous supporter and President of The Aleph Institute for over 20 years. His memory will live on as someone who was devoted to improving the lives of Jewish incarcerated individuals all across America.
